Youth & Family Ministry

Mathew 5:14-16 You are the light of the world. A city on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a basket. Instead, they set it on a stand, and it gives light to everyone in the house. In the same way, let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven....

Word from Our Pastor

"For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope." (Jeremiah 29:11)

Grace and peace to you from God our Father and from our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, amen.

My Dear Trinity Family,

Try to remember what life was like before the Pandemic of 2020. It was just three short years ago. Unemployment was down. Stocks were up. Stores were filled. Incomes were rising and inflation wasn't on anyone's radar screen. Life looked pretty good economically. People were generally pretty content. Certainly, we all found things to complain and grumble about, but in general things seemed good. We all were fairly hopeful... At least many people were...

Hope was lost for Judah. They had been called to repentance, but didn't feel the need. In the time of the prophet Jeremiah, the people had turned away from their God who had formed them into His Chosen People. They had forgotten how God had saved them from slavery in Egypt and led them through the wilderness. They were convinced they could do anything they desired without consequence. They thought since they had the only Temple where the living God resided, they would be protected and forgiven no matter how badly they sinned. Into that situation God called and sent his prophet Jeremiah with a message of repentance. The people rejected his message and subjected him to horrible retribution. They didn't want to look at the way they were living much less change their evil ways.

So here we are today. Many are no longer content or as hopeful. Gas prices are through the roof. Although the rate of inflation has come down, prices are still much higher than they were in 2019 and many people are struggling financially. Supply chain issues continue to wreak havoc on keeping the store shelves filled. When I go into some stores it looks like they are going out of business. A war drags on in the Ukraine that somehow involves the whole world. Our Catholic siblings are considered domestic terrorists by the FBI and at least one Catholic couple was recently in the news because they were rejected as adoptive parents of an orphaned child simply because of their Catholic faith. If they're coming after our Roman Catholic sibs, how long until they come after the Lutherans as well! Trust in leaders? Polls suggest that is pretty much gone. Our leaders don't seem to have many solutions that actually work. It's enough to make the faint of heart lose what little hope they may still have.

The good news is we serve a God of infinite hopefulness. Even to the people of Judah in the time of Jeremiah who had lost everything, God spoke words to give them hope. When they thought they would never have a future again, God shared this good news. God had plans, good plans for His people. He would give them a future and a hope. He would be their God and they would be His people.

As we continue to face all the troubles of our day, I cannot say exactly what the future holds for each of us, but God is clear, in Him we have a future and a hope. Right now, the future is very hopeful in Christ. No matter the troubles we may face, we have a God who has taken care of that future for all eternity in Christ Jesus our Lord. Through His sacrifice, He has forgiven sins and opened the Kingdom of Heaven to all who believe. May God continue to call each of us back to Him and may we all be drawn back to regular Worship. It is in Worshipping and serving that God works in our lives. He gives us a future and a hope. He is our God and continually forms us into His people. Thanks be to God, Amen!

In Christ's Love,
Pastor Mel

SEPTEMBER 2023

Well, here we are at the start of another WELCA year. By now all the children have started going back to school. The Great Darke County fair is over. The air is a little cooler. The fall season is right around the corner.

The WELCA planning meeting which was held in August was packed full of enthusiasm for this coming year. There was a plethora of unique fund-raising ideas. Pat and Pam provided us with nourishments to keep our spirits up and our souls motivated.

We will be starting a new study series- Twelve Women of the Bible. Life-Changing Stories for Women Today. This study will run over 2 years if not a little longer. Our first study will focus on Eve. Eve saw the cost of sin but heard the message of hope in a coming Savior.

The current slate of officers for 2023/2024 are as follows: President PJ, Vice President Marge Warner, Secretary Julie Kossler, Treasurer Portia Boord, Wernle Rep Judy Ulrich and Bev and Eldon Erdman, Sunshine Committee Julie Kossler, Quilting Chair Linda Baker, LWR Judy Ulrich, Luncheon Chair Linda Baker, Giving Tree Pat Netzley and Pam Oswalt, Dinner Chair Katherine Jump.

July through September we will be items for school kits. Rada Knife ongoing fund raiser- see Portia.

PJ will donate 10% of her Mary Kay profit in the months of September and August.

Our next meeting will be September 6th at 11:30 and our Hostess will be Linda Baker. If anyone would like to assist her, please reach out to her.

Jesus loves you and so do I!

Good Things Happening in God's World

Acts of Kindness

I have often heard stories of individuals going through a drive through and when they get to the pay window- they were informed that their items had been paid for. I have always thought that is such a generous act of kindness, to pay for a stranger's food or drink.

Then I got to see the reaction of a gentleman at Perkins Restaurant in Englewood. While my husband and I were at lunch we witnessed a server informing an older black gentleman being informed that his meal had been paid for. He asked who had paid, he was informed that his benefactor had already left. I thought what a generous act of kindness this was. The look of confusion on this gentleman's face said it all. He could not believe it.

I now know how that gentleman felt. Pastor Mel and I went to Miami Valley Hospital to visit Sandra Williams. When we finished our visit, we decided to go to dinner at The Spaghetti Warehouse. Just as we were finishing our meal, our server informed us that our meal was covered in full and once we were done eating, we could leave. We just looked at each other in disbelief. Why us? We thought. Maybe it was the fact that Pastor had his collar on. We felt blessed but uncomfortable at the same time.

God's grace is a gift to us. Yes, totally free. Yes, it may make us uncomfortable. We just need to accept this gift with no strings attached. Do you have a story about acts of kindness?

If you have a story that you would like to share- you can either write it out on paper and give it to me or you may e mail me at pjmusser@woh.rr.com.

Blood Pressure screenings
After worship service when announced.

This month I have decided to post an article related to our youth with regards to social media. This article was shared in my Lutheran Fath Community Nurse Association. This article comes from the following link Mental Health America | Back-to-School Toolkit 2023 | @mentalhealthamerica | mhanational.org/youth-tech.

ONLINE BEHAVIOR AND MENTAL HEALTH

As an adult, it's likely you have a different view of the virtual world than people just a few years younger, and today's tweens and younger are growing up at a time when online spaces are just as prevalent as physical ones. Whether you're 20 or over 65, most adults need to do some catching up to understand what daily life looks like for younger people.

WHERE AND HOW DO YOUNG PEOPLE SPEND THEIR TIME ONLINE?

The virtual universe is just that—entire worlds of platforms. Taking the time to understand what that world looks like is crucial in supporting young people.

CONTENT: POSTING & SCROLLING:

When we think about youth and technology, most people jump to social media - and for good reason. Up to 95% of teens ages 13-17 and 40% of children ages 8-12 report using a social media platform - an experience many adults never had in their youth. Popular platforms among today's kids and teens include TikTok, Instagram, YouTube, and more (learn more from our Social Media Cheat Sheet). Social media sometimes gets a negative reputation, but many young people benefit by using it to express themselves and connect with others. Concerns arise, though, because social media is designed to be addictive. It provides instant gratification and constant hits of dopamine, the "feel good" chemical in the brain. No matter how a young person feels, the wide range of social media content can seem to fulfill a youth's needs, even if that means endless scrolling to numb emotions.

ONLINE INTERACTIONS & MESSAGING:

Social media is meant to be social. Most content includes interactive comment sections, and some platforms - such as Discord, Reddit, and Snapchat. - are designed just for chatting. Teens are more likely to report positive than negative experiences from using social media, primarily because of the sense of connection it can provide. While young people are usually talking online to their friends, virtual communication comes with risks. Cyberbullying, explicit content (nudes), extortion, and online predators are very real threats.

VIDEO GAMES:

Gaming is an entire world of its own within the virtual universe. Like most things, gaming is unlikely to be a problem when done in moderation. In fact, gaming has been linked with some positive effects like improved decision-making and time management skills. But it becomes too much when someone feels like they need to play rather than want to. This has been associated with many mental health challenges like insomnia, low self-esteem, anxiety, aggression, and loneliness. Frequent gaming can also be a coping mechanism or response to symptoms of depression or ADHD.

WHAT KIND OF CONTENT ARE KIDS AND TEENS CONSUMING THAT MIGHT IMPACT THEIR MENTAL HEALTH?

The internet is endless, and it doesn't only show you what you search for or who you follow or subscribe to. Young people see all kinds of content online every day, including unwanted content due to ads, algorithms, comments, and more.

ALGORITHMS:

The content that social media users see on their feeds is controlled by an algorithm, which is a set of rules about how data behaves. Companies analyze user information, preferences, and behaviors to deliver personalized content and keep users on the platform. Algorithms are why we generally see content that interests us. But they can also be used to target vulnerable individuals, pushing pro-suicide, self-harm, or pro-eating disorder content. Because algorithms are designed to keep people engaged, they feed internet addiction. We can't protect young people from everything that could hurt them, and it is no different online. Instead, you can educate yourself, teach and model healthy habits, and prepare them for the dangerous situations they could find themselves in.

PEER CONTENT:

While connectedness is one of the benefits of social media, young people can struggle with constantly seeing what their peers are posting. Whether they're reading posts about friends getting into their top choice colleges, judging their bodies against their favorite influencers, or seeing pictures from someone's seemingly perfect family vacation, comparing themselves and their lives to that of others can lead to dissatisfaction, depression, and anxiety. In addition, FOMO, or "fear of missing out" is common - seeing that friends are getting together without them can hurt. Social media and social comparison to peers may also be factors in the current rise in body dissatisfaction and low self-esteem among adolescents.

FEEL-GOOD CONTENT:

There is a lot of uplifting and helpful content on the internet. Humor is beneficial to mental health, and young people seek out comedy content more than any other topic across all platforms. A simple YouTube video can help someone feel understood and like others relate to them, and TikTok videos can be an easy way to have a quick laugh. In moderation, spending some time online can boost your mental health.

VIOLENT & DANGEROUS CONTENT:

Devices and screens expose youth to more violent and inappropriate content than ever before. This doesn't only happen if they go looking for it, and social media algorithms are known to push unsuitable content. This can include graphic violence, pornography, dangerous challenges, tips to restrict eating, self-harm how-to videos, suicide challenges, and more. The online universe also creates more ways for cyberbullying and sextortion to occur. If you think your child's time online is impacting their mental health, take the parent mental health test at mhascreening.org, and check out MHA's book "Where to Start" for tips on how to take action.

Lutheran Day at the Darke County Fair 2023

Pittsburg Trinity Lutheran Church participated in Lutheran Day on Thursday, August 24 and handed out Quilted Pocket Prayer Squares with a cross inside. Attached was a small explanation telling the recipients that touching the cross in their pocket can remind them of God's love and grace. They could keep that square as a tangible symbol of God's peace, or just pass it along to someone else needing prayer.

This cross picture is made up of the small Pocket Squares given at the Fair.

On Sunday, August 20, Prayer Quilts were given to Marge Warner for her upcoming surgery, and to Keith Fourman in praise for his successful treatments.

to our Prayers and Squares quilters from both.

Oh! how great and glorious a thing it is to have before one the Word of God! With that we may at all times feel joyous and secure; we need never be in want of consolation, for we see before us, in all its brightness, the pure and right way. He who loses sight of the Word of God, falls into despair; the voice of heaven no longer sustains him; he follows only the disorderly tendency of his heart, and of world vanity, which lead him on to his destruction.

—The Table Talk of Martin Luther

Going to school with Jesus.....

In Faith Takes a Name, Dwight E. Stevenson writes that if we consider ourselves to be disciples of Jesus, then we must remain “learners under the instruction of Christ.” He notes, “Quite literally, a disciple is a pupil, scholar, student or learner. In [Jesus’] world a teacher with his band of disciples was to that culture what schools and universities are to our society. To be a disciple of Jesus is to go to school with him.”

It's a miracle!

I believe in miracles. While I believe in the possibility, under God, of any kind of miracle, I am committed especially to the miracle of the changed life. When a human being goes from despair to hope, when a lost soul comes home, or when a mean and destructive person becomes kind and fruitful, the greatest of all miracles has occurred.

—J. Ellsworth Kalas
